ABSTRACT

Communication is an absolute necessity for every human being, where in the absence of human communication will be spelled out of date and will not get any information. Therefore, in order to facilitate someone to get information then created tools such as mobile phones and computers and laptops. In addition, the development of technology and information is currently growing rapidly. The development of computer technology has also penetrated into human life as one of the needs that must be owned is no exception with the world of education. In addition to computers, the current emerging technology is SMS. Because SMS is one of the mobile application services very easy and cheap. One such service is Gateway SMS, because SMS Gateway can be developed for the dissemination of information systems more quickly, precisely and efficiently. Therefore it is suitable to be implemented in the service of academic information data of Madrasah Aliyah Mathlaul Anwar which still uses manual system in giving value to every student.
